Recommendation:

Members are invited to comment on the Safeguarding Families Together model and support the implementation of a pilot project in Chesil (Weymouth and Portland).

Reason for Recommendation:

As part of the Delivering Locally priority within our Children Young People and Families plan 2020-2023, we committed to 'embed whole family approaches, with a particular focus on addressing the needs of children living with parental substance use, mental ill-health or domestic abuse'. The evidence base of this whole family approach is strong, and this project is part of our wider Transformation Programme within the Children Service's Directorate.

1. Executive Summary

- 1.1. Nationally there has been an increase in the demand for children's services over recent years and this has increased further following the Covid impact. There is a well-managed system in Dorset and we are not seeing the same level of increase in demand, however we are seeing an increase in complexity with the families that we are working with and a sustained need for support for families experiencing multiple and complex challenges. The Safeguarding Families Together (SFT) model will provide a planned strategic approach that will help address this and deliver better outcomes for children and their families.

- 1.2. The main aspect of Safeguarding Families Together (SFT) project is creating specialist Multi-Disciplinary Teams working alongside social workers on Children In Need/Child Protection/Children In Care to support children and parents by integrating the specialist workers tackling domestic abuse, parental mental health, and substance misuse to improve children's lives through whole family working.
- 1.3. 80% of our child protection work in Dorset is related to families experiencing domestic abuse, parental substance misuse and/or poor parental mental health. All of these areas of challenge have been an increased area of concern due to the pandemic and an increased need for partnership involvement and support to our families. There has been increased investment in perpetrator programmes and domestic abuse offer and we want to enhance this further to ensure these are more readily available and effective within the child's timeline. These parental issues and fragmentation of support available for families are a significant cost driver in demand for children's social care and placement costs.
- 1.4. Similar models to SFT have already been embedded across other local authorities and demonstrated significant impact and value for money and significant impact on practice and culture change. The models have been evaluated by the DfE to be effective and good practice. It aligns with the current strength-based practice model; the Dorset Children Thrive model with an emphasis on working positively with parents to enable them to keep their children at home when safe to do so.
- 1.5. This model will enable us to further skill up our workforce, through a more collaborative way of working where we motivate parents to identify the changes needed within their own families. The SFT approach seeks to change the way social workers engage with parents, working with them to facilitate their own change of behaviour. This will help achieve better outcomes for children.

2. Financial Implications

The application of this approach has been evaluated nationally and shows a strong return on investment. Funding has been secured for this pilot programme through the Council's Transformation programme and forms part of the Children's Services Five Year Budget Strategy. Financial benefits realisation will be tracked and reported corporately.

3. Well-being and Health Implications

Offering seamless pathways of whole family support has been shown to improve wellbeing and health outcomes.

4. Climate implications

None identified

5. Other Implications

In order for this model to be effective the council will need to work with partners in the Police, Probation, Health Services including Public Health and the community and voluntary sector.

6. Risk Assessment

Having considered the risks associated with this decision, the level of risk has been identified as:

Current Risk: Low

Residual Risk: Low

7. Equalities Impact Assessment

An EqIA has been completed for the Children Young People and Families Plan. A project level equalities impact assessment is in the process of being undertaken alongside developing the plans and strategy.

10. Introduction and background

- 10.1. This project is part of a comprehensive Transformation Programme within the Children Service's Directorate. As part of the Delivering Locally priority within our Children Young People and Families plan, we committed to 'embed whole family approaches, with a particular focus on addressing the needs of children living with parental substance use, mental ill-health or domestic abuse'.
- 10.2. Nationally there has been an increase in the demand for children's service over recent years and this has increased further following the Covid impact, this is also reflected locally (Chesil) including a continued projected increase in demand. The Safeguarding Families Together (SFT) model will provide a planned strategic approach that will help manage the high levels of demand, whilst also delivering better outcomes for children and their families.
- 10.3. 80% of our child protection work is related to families experiencing domestic abuse, parental substance misuse and/or poor parental mental health. All of these areas of challenge have been an increased area of concern due to the pandemic and an increased need for partnership involvement and support to our families. There has been increased investment in perpetrator programmes and domestic abuse offer and we want to enhance this further to ensure these are more readily available and effective within the child's timeline. These parental issues and fragmentation of support available for families are a significant cost driver in demand for children's social care and placement costs.
- 10.4. A transformation proforma was submitted to the Performance Leadership Group for transformation funding, it highlighted; although decreasing, our rate of children in care (65 per 10,000) is still higher than we want it to be. Need is seen in all parts of the county, however the greatest need and challenge is in the Weymouth and Portland area, where 40% of our looked after children and child protection cases and 1/3 of our CIN cases come from/ most of our CIN (68%) and CP (74%) cases are children aged 12 and under.
- 10.5. Half of our children in care are under 12 (Based on August 2021 performance data) and this intervention is key to reducing the number of younger children in the care system.
- 10.6. Similar models to SFT have already been embedded across other local authorities and demonstrated significant impact and value for money and significant impact on practice and culture change. The models have been evaluated by the DfE to be effective and good practice. It aligns with the current strength-based practice model; the Dorset Children Thrive model with an emphasis on working positively with parents to enable them to keep their children at home when safe to do so.

- 10.7. This model will enable us to further skill up our workforce, through a more collaborative way of working where we motivate parents to identify the changes needed within their own families. The SFT approach seeks to change the way social workers engage with parents, working with them to facilitate their own change of behaviour. This will help achieve better outcomes for children.
- 10.8. SFT is designed to provide rapid, proactive support to children and their families. It is delivered by multiagency teams who are trained in a range of highly effective interventions.
- 10.9. The principle underpinning this model is to ensure that families open to statutory services can receive interventions from Mental Health, Substance Misuse and Domestic Abuse, if required, once a case is open to children's social care. The model will enable parents to receive the right support and intervention, in a coordinated way, to enable greater chances for children to remain with parents and prevent children becoming subject to Child Protection plans.
- 10.10. The main aspect of Safeguarding Families Together (SFT) project is creating specialist Multi-Disciplinary Teams working alongside social workers on Children In Need/Child Protection/Children In Care to support children and parents by integrating the specialist workers tackling domestic abuse, parental mental health, and substance misuse to improve children's lives through whole family working. We will work in partnership with safeguarding, Domestic Abuse and Mental Health and Substance Misuse services to create a common language around screening, risk assessment and interventions, underpinned by regular lines of communication.

10.11. Safeguarding Families Together aims
